

Etymology and Onomastic Sciences in a New Era: Perspectives, Issues, Innovations, Progresses, and Solutions

Dear Colleagues,

This Special Issue of the Journal Forum in Linguistics Studies, entitled Etymology and Onomastic Sciences in a New Era: Perspectives, Issues, Innovations, Progresses, and Solutions, aims at collecting and publishing high quality research papers in Etymology, Onomastics, Toponomastics, Lexicology, Lexicography.

Articles dealing with

- Language Deciphering and History of Writing,
- Field Linguistics and Language Documentation,

Developed with an etymological / historical-linguistic approach, will also be considered for publication.

Especially welcomed are studies dealing with the historical reconstruction of words, names, place names, anthroponyms, and phytonyms, as well as articles focused on complex issues, such as, among others, the puzzle inherent in prehistoric homelands and settlement dynamics of prehistoric speakers through the etymological restitution and analysis of lexemes from different lexical and semantic groups and fields.

Original perspectives and an interdisciplinary approach should be integral components of the accepted papers.

We look forward to receiving your contributions!
